Macdonald Dinner, Ottawa. A public dinner was given to Sir J. A Macdonald on Nov. 13th at the Russell House Ottawa, by a number of his political friends. Among others present were: Messrs. Carrall Nelson, Thompson and Dewdney. Mr. De Nelson, Thompson and Dewdney. Mr. De Cosmos, although stopping at the Russell, declined accepting a complimentary inaitation or joining in the demonstration in any way. He held, we are informed, that it was his duty above all things to look after the material interests of British Columbia, and J. P. DAVIES & CO his duty above all things to look after the not jeopardize them by joining a rabid opposition, led even by Sir John; and openly evowed that he intended, as an Independent member, to give a generous and liberal support to the Machenzie Government so long as our Province with the rest of the Dominion was governed well or wisely. We are glad that he acted with his usual wisdom in this matter; for had he been led away by such enthusiastic people as Dr. Carrall, there would not have been to-day a single one of our members who was a friendly supporter of the new Government. Just imagine! The Province suffering for public works,-friendly aid, railway included, -and all its members fighting against the Government wbo alene have the power to grant what we want ! All our members opposed to the new Government for what? Is there any grand ANGEL HOTEL principle involved in supporting the fallen Ministers? Read the speeches elsewhere of Mesers. Carrall, Nelson, Thompson, what great principle is disclosed in their postprandial utterances ? Nothing-literally nothing. There are some fine, generous, hospitable, social, good fellows in the Oppoeition, who, during their turn in power, brought British Columbia into the Union. MARRIED.

a the 4th inst., by the Rev. S. McGregor, M. A., Alexander Dalgarno Strachan to Miss Elizabeth The Quarantine Arbitration.

SECOND DAY.

[Before Mr. Justice Gray and Hon. W. Hamley.]

The investigation and arbitration touching the quarantine claims was proceeded hitw yesterday at noon. In commencing business, ex-Mayor Lewis was called on and asked a few questions by the Court. He said at the time the steamer Prince Alfred arrived with the small-pox on board, he was Mayor. He advice concerning the quarantine. [Mr. taken as Mayor]

Mr. Justice Gray then asked for some exwould appear, said the learned Justice, that to injure those who give it its bread and butall the backs, express wagons and other ter. The real facts of the case, the Colonist traordinary part of the whole business was that passengers were kept out of town and quarantined at a very great expense for some time, and the very steamship—in fact the main instrument of the whole trouble-was. allowed to come into port and discharge her Councillor Gowed-The steamer was first thoroughly fumigated, your honor.

Mr. Justice Gray-But did not the steamer proceed to Nanaimo and the small-pox break out again on board?

Councillor Gowen-Yes, your honor. Mr. Justice Gray, continuing, remarked that he did not consider the sum of $4 for driving to the pest house and back at all exorbitant, but he found that $10 was charged on every occasion in one or two accounts. The account, however, for bedding appeared to be reasonable, as also did the many small bills for meat and provisions, other than the boarding account. The total amount of bills rendered amounted to over $12,000, and his cases of small-pox the charges did seem very exerbitant; this was what must strike every disinterested party. The expenses actually exceed those of the port of Quebec for a scribed at New Westminster, to erect a new year, and are positively three times as much Wesleyan church in that city; to be comas those of the important port of Halifax, menced probably in May. where numbers of vessels are in quarantine in the course of a year. His honor thought that it was due to the Dominion Government that British Columbia should explain the wonderful disproportion of the charges made. The Court would also like to know the value Irving, Treasurer; J. McMurphy, Secretary; House of Assembly. Councillor Gowen-I think, your honor, they are worth some $600.

By Mr. Hamley-Well, the list the Court has does not lead me to think so. The articles thereon named would not fetch $100. Mr. Lewis-There is a quantity of goods much as they had been used for the purpose expected to freeze over very soon. Mr. Sylfor which they had. For himself he would vester starts for Omineca next Friday. would ruin any business. Several tradesmen then proceeded to prove their claims. With reference to Mr. Astrico's claim, amounting to upwards of $8,000, Mr. Justice Gray asked Mr. Lewis and other members of the then Board of Health, whether they had as a board, and trustees of public money, acknowledged the correctness of the bill? Mr. Lewis, in reply, said "no," the board had deemed the account excessive. Mr. Justice Gray-Then how could the Board of Health in all fairness submit the account to either the local or Dominion Government, when it was known to be excessive? As trustees, the Board of Health had certainly displayed a lax manner in dealing with public money. If the bill had been deemed excessive it was the duty of the Board of Health to explain in what point the excess series of lectures for the benefit of the actually was.

the charges made were not excessive.

Mr. Justice Gray-But surely, Mr. Lewis, the Dominion, Government, some 4,000 miles | tended by large audiences. away, could not be expected to know the justness of claims made in this Province without the explanation of the Board of Health, who were the actual authority for to other parties to pay when I believed it to be excessive.

Another account was then considered, the following being amongst the claims submit-

THE CONCERT .- There was a large attendance at the concert given last evening by Prof. Rutan, the blind teacher, at the Alhambra Hall. There were on the platform between forty and fitty young people, pupils of the Professor, and the manner they acquitted themselves, considering the very tion, was creditable nike to teacher and scholars. Some of the young ladies sang with a sweetness and power that would have done no discredit to experienced vocalists. Where all did so well, it would be invidious to particularize. We were glad to see se large an audience on the occasion, and that the concert was in all respects so great a
